Complaints Result From Use of Open Toilets in Hope

Western Edge of City Is Affected Says Health Officer

REMEDY IS URGED

C. E. Baker Awarded Gold Medal for Services Rendered City

Dr. P. B. Carrigan, city health physician, told the city council Tuesday night that vigorous protests had been lodged with him because of open toilets and their obnoxious odors in the western edge of town.

In an oral report to the council, Dr. Carrigan said that many of the complaints centered around six row houses owned by the Rev. James H. Bennett.

The physician said these six houses were badly in need of sewerage connections and urged the city to take immediate steps in correcting the situation.

To Purchase Truck
The council passed a motion by Alderman L. Carter Johnson, chairman of the water and light committee, to purchase a new truck for the municipal plant.

After approving the motion, the council referred the matter to the Board of Public Affairs with approval recommended. The board passes on all matters regarding any purchase of more than $300.

The council approved a motion by Alderman Kenneth G. Hamilton to employ McDuffie, Stewart & Co., of Little Rock, to audit the city books and also the records of the water and light plant. The audit is expected to start April 1.

Chief of Police Claude Stuart filed his report for the month of January which showed: Arrests 19; fines assessed $200; fines collected $97; one case dismissed; one $50 case appealed to circuit court; fines worked out on streets and at Fair park $18; uncollected fines $35; hauling trash $93; corporation license collected $320.

The January report of Fire Chief J. K. Sale showed 12 alarms of which eight were false or unnecessary. He estimated the fire loss last month at $680, and damage to a truck in answering an alarm at $25.

Officials Are Thanked
Mrs. John W. Owen, in a letter to the council, thanked city officials for their acts of kindness in the recent death of her husband, headlineman for the municipal light and water plant. Her letter follows:

"On behalf of myself and the entire Owen family, I want to express to you the sincere gratitude which we feel to you for the many fine acts which you have performed for us in the great loss we have experienced in the passing of my beloved husband, John Owen."

"I shall never forget the beautiful floral cross sent by the City of Hope. I shall also always be grateful that the City of Hope paid the doctor's bills, hospital bills and funeral expenses of my husband, and paid off the mortgage on my home and gave me $1,000 in cash."

"Of course, the great loss that we have sustained is irreplaceable; but it heartens me considerably, and encourages me to bear my loss, when to think that in the community in which my husband lived, and the municipality which he served, his life and services were appreciated."

"I am thankful that I am privileged to continue to live in the city whose officials have both publicly and privately shown such a splendid spirit to me as the widow of John W. Owen."

Baker Awarded Badge
The council passed a resolution of appreciation for the services of Clarence E. Baker, who resigned January 1 as chief of police to become sheriff of Hempstead county.

Mr. Baker has been a peace officer the past 15 years of which 13 years were spent on the police force. The council, and the present police force awarded Mr. Baker a gold badge with the inscription "Sheriff of Hempstead County."

The resolution of appreciation follows:

WHEREAS, Clarence E. Baker has resigned as Chief of Police of the City of Hope, Arkansas, to assume the duties of the office of sheriff and collector of Hempstead county to which position he has recently been elected; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Baker has served the City of Hope as chief of police and as a peace officer since the year, 1924, except two years of which time he

Murder Charge Is Filed in Slaying at Fulton

Constable Wilson to Be Arraigned in Court Monday

Circumstances Surrounding Killing of Otis Ward to Be Aired

INQUEST CANCELLED

Coroner Says Interested Persons Want Complete Investigation

Information charging Constable Ed Wilson of Fulton with first degree murder in the slaying last Saturday night of Otis Ward, 30, was filed at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday by Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Albert Graves.

The information was filed in the office of the municipal court clerk at Hope following a conference here between Prosecuting Attorney Dick Huie of Arkadelphia, Sheriff C. E. Baker of Hope, and Deputy Prosecutor Albert Graves.

Sheriff Baker said he would obtain the warrant for Wilson's arrest Wednesday afternoon—but that it would not be served until "some time later."

Sheriff Baker denied there had been new information obtained in the slaying which occurred at a tent show in Fulton following an argument between Constable Wilson and Ward.

The information against Wilson said he shot and killed Ward "willfully, feloniously and with malice aforethought and after premeditation and deliberation."

Inquest Cancelled
An inquest, scheduled for 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, was cancelled by Coroner J. H. Weaver who announced that "interested parties" at Fulton desired a thorough and complete investigation of the case.

Deputy Prosecutor Graves said later in the day that a preliminary hearing for Wilson would be held in municipal court here Monday to determine disposition of the case.

Mr. Graves explained that in most all killings a first degree charge was filed first and after testimony and other information was at hand the exact charge or exoneration of the person accused is determined.

Constable Wilson will plead self-defense when arraigned in court here Monday, officers said.

Bobcats Again Win Over Waldo, 47-28

Will Open Two-Game Series With Texarkana Thursday Night

The Hope High School basketball team made it two straight over Waldo by taking the second game of the two-game series Tuesday night at Waldo, 47 to 28.

Baker led the Hope scoring attack with 14 points. Green made 12 points and Ellen 10. Roy Taylor, Hope guard, fouled out during the last half.

Scoring the most points for Waldo were Watkins 12, and Raben 11.

The Bobcats go to Texarkana Thursday night for a game with the Arkansas High Packers. Texarkana will come here Friday night.

Coach Hammons reported that he had mailed an entry list to officials at Pine Bluff for the conference tournament to be held in Pine Bluff the latter part of February.

To date the Bobcats have five conference wins against one defeat. A team must play 12 conference games to be eligible for the title. The tournament was arranged to bring conference teams together to compete for a percentage basis.

Coach Hammons said a game with Fordyce this week could not be arranged.

You and Your Taxes: They're Easier to Pay if You Know What You're Paying for

U. S. Collection Is Heaviest, and It Is Generally 'Hidden'

Income and Property Tax-payers Are Those Who Pay Directly

"SOCIAL SECURITY"

New Payroll Tax Destined to Become Heavier Than Income Tax

This is the first of three stories from a pamphlet "Our Taxes and What They Buy," prepared by Mr. Stewart and issued by the Public Affairs Committee at 8 W. 40th St. New York City.

B. MAXWELL S. STEWART
Editor, Public Affairs Committee Pamphlets

Everybody hates to pay taxes. But they hate it less the more they understand who pays taxes, and for what.

In many fields, the reluctant taxpayer couldn't begin to buy for himself, with his tax money, the things the same money gets for him when spent publicly. Every taxpayer owes it to himself to learn more about taxes, not only for his own peace of mind, but because it is getting clearer all the time that the solution of avoiding depressions and stabilizing business lies somewhere in the combination between sound taxing and controlled government spending.

Who pays taxes? Everybody. Many people think they don't, but they do. The small fraction of the American people that pays income taxes, knows it. So do property owners when the local government comes around for semi-annual real estate or personal property taxes. The others don't generally realize it, but they pay taxes, too.

Biggest Share to Federal Government
Every package of cigarettes, every bottle of liquor, every gallon of gasoline means that the buyer has paid a tax. But even people who buy none of these things pay taxes—indirectly. They pay them in the form of higher rents, higher prices for food, clothing, and other necessities that they would have to pay if the sellers of those things did not themselves have taxes to meet.

Nearly half of these taxes are collected by the federal government. But more than half are collected by state and local governments or taxing districts, 175,000 of them.

About a third of all the taxes collected come from levies on property, mostly real estate, though most states also tax property like stocks and bonds, farm tools, autos, clothing and jewelry.

Such taxes average at least 1 1/2 per cent a year on the true value of the property, though of course the rates vary in each taxing district.

The income tax is the most important source of taxes for the federal government. Though two-thirds of the states have income taxes, they get far less from them than the federal government. Not more than 2,000,000 of the country's 125,000,000 people paid federal income taxes in 1936, a very small minority.

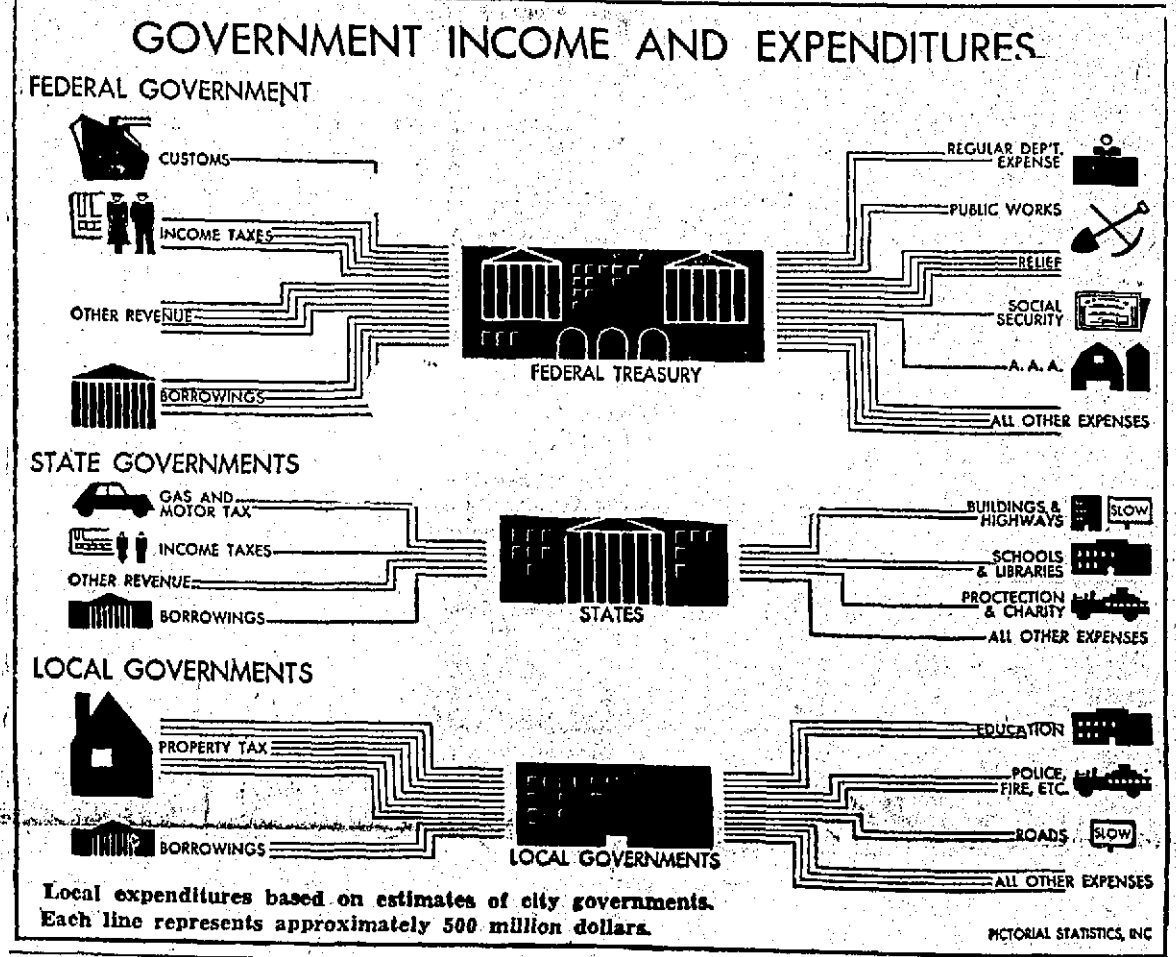

Death Doesn't End Taxes
The federal government and all states but Nevada tax property that is passed on by inheritance from one owner to another. The federal government taxes the dead person's estate as a whole. Most states tax the person receiving the property. To prevent people from giving away their property while still alive, a gift tax has been devised which is roughly equal to the estate tax.

Taxes levied on payrolls for Social Security Act purposes have not been a large factor in the past. But they are growing, and unless present plans are changed, combined federal and state taxes on payrolls for old age and unemployment insurance will bring in more money than income taxes within four or five years.

People think of taxes as taxes paid by foreigners for the privilege of sending their goods into this country. That is a mistake.

Tariffs are really a domestic tax, because they are paid for by the buyers of goods in higher prices. Example: A certain American-made gadget costs 50 cents. A foreign

Union Contradicts Brick Statement

Assert 19 Brick Workers on Strike, and 20 Still on the Job

Editor The Star: After reading in Tuesday's issue of The Hope Star the statement of the Hope Brick Works in regard to the labor trouble there we feel that it is only fair that both sides of the controversy be before the public.

The grievance committee of the local set out to discuss and settle disputes and unfair discharges, have met the employer (O'Neal) and have been unsuccessful in settling these disputes because of the dictator attitude of O'Neal and giving the representatives of the local very little voice in the meetings. Non-union men are permitted to practice those things that are considered grounds for the discharge of union men.

Roy Evans was at no time of his alleged intoxication near the premises of the plant. Mr. O'Neal contended to the committee that he considered that Roy had quit. He changes the story when it goes into print. A non-union man Robert Moore was carried into court and convicted of carrying a gun and disturbing the peace and retained his job without trouble.

Giles Aubrey and Henry Nelson, one with two and one half and the other three years seniority on the plant are now charged with incompetency. Why had not these men been found to be

Cold Wave Here Due to Reach 20

Winter Weather Is Likely to Prevail for Extended Period

Don't let Hope's summer weather these last few days fool you—there's a cold wave coming.

The official forecast is for zero weather Thursday in northwest Arkansas, and 20 degrees or lower for the rest of the state.

By the Associated Press
A severe cold wave rolled eastward Wednesday out of the Pacific Northwest, casting a sub-zero spell over much of the northern half of the nation.

Chicago Forecaster H. A. Downs said the cold would continue several days. The effects will be felt as far south as Arkansas, where near-zero temperatures are predicted by Thursday.

Roosevelt Angrily Attacks Senators

President Bitter Against Sen. Glass for Judge's Rejection

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—In vigorous language, President Roosevelt accused the Senate Tuesday of disregarding the nomination of Floyd H. Roberts as federal judge of the Western district of Virginia.

Declaring that no question as to Roberts' fitness was raised, he said the constitution was intended to give the Senate the right to reject or confirm appointments "solely on the grounds of the fitness of the nominee."

Virginia's two Democratic senators, Glass and Byrd, who persuaded the Senate to reject the nomination on the ground that it was personally objectionable to them, were accused by the president of trying to dictate to him.

Glass and Byrd had suggested men for the judgeship. Glass angrily told the Senate Judiciary Committee that he had information the president's action was intended as a rebuke to him.

Auto License Cut Gaining for 1940

House Committee Recommends Horse-Racing Handbook Bill

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The senate pushed a step nearer enactment Wednesday a bill to reduce automobile licenses when it concurred in a house amendment providing for a graduated scale of reductions instead of a flat one-third cut.

The senate refused, however, to concur in the house amendment providing that the reduction become effective February 1 this year.

The present bill would affect licenses for 1940.

The house adopted by a voice vote a resolution directing the State Education Commissioner to supply information on all state textbook purchases the past two years.

Moncrief said he would introduce in the house Wednesday a bill to permit retirement on half-pay all supreme court justices at the age of 50 who become permanently disabled.

The house received Wednesday from the charitable institutions committee a favorable recommendation on a bill to legalize horse-racing handbooks throughout the state.

The bill would provide that its revenues go to the old-age pension fund, 5 per cent of gross wages to go to the state, plus a $200 monthly license fee per handbook.

The house also received a favorable recommendation on the Vesey bill to reduce the gasoline tax to 5 1/2 cents.

U. S.-State Battle
LITTLE ROCK.—Long-smoldering dissension within the Democratic party in Arkansas, with holders of federal jobs aligned against the state administration, will flare into an open fight before the end of the present legislative session, leaders of the rival factions admitted Tuesday.

Recent developments have laid the foundation for the struggle. These include:

1. Disclosure that a spokesman for the state administration last week lodged with Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes a strenuous protest against employment by the Public Works Administration of Alexander McEllan, former state Highway Department and Revenue Department employee under the administration of former Governor J. M. Futrell.

2. Introduction Tuesday in the Senate of a bill, approved by Governor Bailey, which would authorize a special state primary that would enable Arkansas voters to express their preference among the various candidates for the Democratic nomination for president. PEACE IS REJECTED

Franco Declines Terms—Britain, France Offer Him a Loan

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—The British cruiser Devonshire arrived Wednesday at Minorca, disputed island in the Spanish Balcars, while the London cabinet considered measures to prevent Italy and Germany from obtaining control of the island.

At the same time officials acknowledged Britain had asked insurgent Generalissimo Franco to agree to a truce in the civil war.

The admiralty and the foreign office declined to discuss the Devonshire's mission to Minorca, which the Spanish government has held since early in the war.

Paris diplomatic circles said Franco and Britain had offered Generalissimo Franco huge rehabilitation loans in return for promises to oust Italian and German troops.

War to Continue
PERPIGNAN, France.—(AP)—Spanish government officials announced Tuesday night that the hard-pressed Juan Negrin cabinet had decided to continue the fight in defense of the one-fourth of Spanish soil still in its hands. The announcement indicated insurgent General Franco had repeated his demand for unconditional surrender to end the 30-month civil war.

The government's decision to fight on was made known shortly after Julio Alvarez del Vayo, foreign minister of the Spanish government, conferred at Perpignan with members of the Spanish Cortes (Parliament) and then crossed the border for a conference with Premier Negrin.

"Our government which is the result of the people's will has decided to pursue the fight to the end," said Alvarez del Vayo. "The means at our disposal in the central zone can permit us to prolong the fight for some months."

Refugee Safe Conduct
The insurgents were said to have remained adamant in refusing the government's last condition for peace: more safe conduct for Spain for leaders of Leftist parties, labor unions and military forces who are now in the

Occupational Therapy Needed When Patient Is Long Bedfast

When the World War ended in 1918 occupational treatment of disease came into its own. Since that time hundreds of young women from all over the United States, from England, and from Canada and from foreign countries have been trained in this work. Today occupational therapy is recognized as a significant part of medical practice.

There are five recognized schools in the United States and Canada, including the one established in Boston in 1918 as a wartime measure. Another in St. Louis, another in Philadelphia, one in Milwaukee, and one in Toronto.

Certain essentials for a good school of occupational therapy are recognized and there are minimum requirements for those who wish to study in such schools. Briefly, such schools are not operated for profit. They are controlled by a public spirited men and women. They are frequently affiliated with colleges or universities. They have a competent teaching staff with good facilities. Any school of occupational therapy has a library with the standard textbooks and periodicals needed in this field and it is directed by a competent executive officer who is fitted by training and experience to lead the work.

Now, what does an occupational therapist do that makes the work so necessary to modern medicine? Actually occupational therapy is employed in all sorts of diseases such as arthritis, tuberculosis, heart disease, and recovery from all forms of paralysis. Occupational therapy is needed whenever a person is confined to bed for a fairly long period of time. Occupational therapy varies from the kind of work that can be carried on when the patient is flat on his back in bed to the work that is carried on by patients who move about and use all kinds of machinery. It may begin with such light work as basketry, weaving, braiding and drawing and move on to the building of looms, ornaments and furniture or power apparatus.

A Book a Day

Two Good Plays to Be Read

Two of this season's most successful plays have been published separately by Random House Co. They are "Kiss the Boys Goodbye," by Clare Boothe, and "Rocket to the Moon," by Clifford Odets.

Miss Boothe, as those who remember "The Woman" will recall, is a playwright who shows her characters with vividly by means of an atomizer. In this particular case she would have done better to use Fiat. A more loathsome set of people have seldom appeared before the public in any guise.

The story concerns itself with the selection of a young lady to play the part of Velvet O'Toole in the cinema version of a bestselling Civil War novel. Any familiarity you may feel with that theme is justified.

The action occurs during a week-end party at the home of an editor, and in spite of Miss Boothe's statements to the contrary, the idea seems to be to rip the nation's treasured literature wide open for public ridicule.

In this object she succeeds very well and does a job worth doing. But she hasn't done it well enough. The people are never more than people on a stage, and while much of the dialogue is amusing it has not yet been proved that throwing a crepe Suzette instead of a custard pie makes the action itself any less vulgar.

Mr. Odets' play "Rocket to the Moon," is not a complete success, either. What might have been a great play must stand as good play (which is a lot) because of seemingly loose construction. These characters, however, are burningly alive, and a story of the young dentist, torn between a bitter wife and a pretty, young assistant, is a magnificent attempt at analysis of a dark human passion.—E.M.T.

Pioneers, Social and Mechanical

The brothers John and Mack Rust, inventors of a leading mechanical cotton picker, are pioneers not only in the world of machinery but in the world of men.

They are among the first inventors to face squarely the social effects of their invention and to try to shape those effects so they will be good. Their inventors as for everybody else, life gets more complex. Once it was enough for Nobels to invent dynamite or Wright to invent the airplane. Now the world asks not only "How good is it?" Inventors must work on social as well as on mechanical equations.

The Rust brothers have tried to do it. At the same time that they announced plans to build a factory to turn out 1000 mechanical pickers a year, they also announced the Rust Foundation. Through that they plan to devote most of the profits of their invention to helping protect displaced pickers from hardships, and raise their standards of living.

Their own income is to be not larger than 10 times that of their lowest-paid employee, the Rust brothers announced. The rest of the profits are to go to the foundation to achieve things like this:

- To promote schools, libraries and hospitals.
- To publish books, periodicals. To run radio stations and otherwise disseminate information.
- To help individuals to raise their standards of living, and to co-operate with other organizations working toward the same general ends.

There have been objections to the cotton picker because it will displace labor. John Rust admitted. But as the pickers are "the poorest-paid people in America," he thinks he is doing them a favor to free them from back-breaking toil in the fields. One of the purposes of the foundation will be to train many of them as possible to build, operate, and service the new machinery.

The pioneers of a century ago were those who thrust out into the wilderness to hack out a living with ax and rifle. The pioneers of today are the John and Mack Rusts, who are willing to experiment and take a chance on new ways of doing things, new ways of living in a mechanized, inter-dependent world.

Life
A little laughter, and a time for tears.
A stretch of duty, and an hour for play.
Tis thus we march life's journey through the years.
From baby curls to tresses thin and gray.
A friend or two whose faith in us remains;
A roof where love has sheltered every dream.
Has counted all its losses and its gains.
These make the fabric of life's noble scheme.
Life gives us bits of joys and bits of cares.
And bids us fashion something as a whole.
We choose our own design, an ill it bears.
The stamp of men-God rewards the soul.—Selected.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Kyler had as week-end guests, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Bass of Beaumont, Texas.

Circle No. 4 W. M. S. First Methodist church held its February meeting on Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Chas. Harrell, West Sixth street with Mrs. Dewey Hendrix as joint hostess. Fourteen members responded to the roll call, and a most interesting program was presented by Mrs. P. H. Webb. "Faith" was the subject of Mrs. Vesey-Crutchfield's very helpful devotion. The regular routine of business was transacted, after which the hostesses served cherry pie with hot coffee.

The Zone meeting, W. M. S. First Methodist church will be held in this city (not Ozon as previously stated) Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the First Methodist church.

Circle No. 1, W. M. S., First Methodist church met on February 6 at the home of Mrs. Steve Carrigan, Jr., with Mrs. E. H. Horton and Mrs. T. R. Billingsley as associate hostesses. The meeting opened with the Lord's prayer. "Widening the Horizons of the Home" was the subject of the afternoon's study presented by Mrs. T. R. Billingsley. Mrs. Billingsley based her helpful devotion on "Wide Walls" and pointed out we should build our house of life with wide walls, including "love, faith, tolerance and hope." Mrs. Webb Laster Jr., discussed "New Horizons in Education" and Mrs. Edwin Stewart stressed the physical necessities of the home. Mrs. Billingsley invited all members to participate in an open discussion. A short business meeting followed with the collection of dues, and Mrs. E. P. Stewart closed the meeting with prayer, after which the hostesses served delicious cherry tarts and hot coffee to 16 members.

The Friday Music club will meet Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. M. Smyth on South Main street with Mrs. A. C. Kolb as joint hostess. The choral practice will be at 2:30, followed by the study at 3:30. Mrs. Edwin Elward will lead the study on "Instruments for Making Music."

The P. T. A. Council met in regular session Tuesday afternoon, February 7, at the city hall. Meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Edwin Dosselt. Invocation was given by Mrs. Alfred Brannen. Minutes of last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Pansy Wimberly, and approved. Reports from the various committee chairmen were given. A very instructive and interesting round table discussion followed, led by our superintendent, Miss Beryl Henry, her subject being "The Workings of Our School." Committees were named for Founders Day program which will be February 17. An invitation is extended to every one who would like to come. A social hour in the Home Ec building will be enjoyed immediately after the program. Everyone is invited to attend the tea. In the March of Dimes campaign, close to $60 was sent in from our four schools. The National Honor Convention to be held in Hope March 17-18 is quite an honor for our little city, and the citizens are urged to open their homes to these students. Accommodations for one night and breakfast the following morning is all that is asked. A motion was made and carried that our secretary write a letter to our senator and representatives commending them on their problems. Mrs. Robert Wilson, Mrs. H. O. Kyler, Mrs. E. P. McFadden and Mrs. Eugene White were appointed the nominating committee.

Mrs. Emmett Lewallen is spending this week with Mr. and Mrs. Riley Lewallen and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Collier. She will join her husband in Nashville, Ark., Monday, February 13.

Emmett Lewallen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Riley Lewallen was transferred to the cable department of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. February 3. Young Lewallen began working with the construction department of the telephone company October 1936. He will be stationed for a few months at Nashville, Ark., and from there will probably be in Hope a month or two.

Miss Melva Bullington was hostess of the 40 Vesey circle of the W. M. S. First Methodist church at the home of Mrs. George Sanders on Monday evening, February 6. Miss Harriet Story was in charge of the interesting program. "Widening Our Horizons at Home" was assisted by Mrs. Roy Stephenson, Mrs. Hendricks Spryngins and Miss Mary Sue Anderson. At the close of the program the hostess served delicious refreshments to 15 members and three guests, Mrs. Oliver Adams, Mrs. Woodward and Mrs. Rillo.

incompetent before their joining the union. O'Neal has attempted to scare the members of the local with the statement that a warning was found on the door of his office and directly accused two members of placing it there. No Union man has ever heard of such a document. If such a document can be produced it should be turned over to the authorities for investigation.

O'Neal has practiced interference, restraint and coercion among employees until relations were strained to the breaking point. O'Neal has offered employees their initiation fees and all dues paid to the local to be refunded to them and place them back on former jobs in return for their union cards. "These conditions reached the breaking point February 6th when O'Neal discharged a Mayor (white) because it had not been convenient to obtain his wife's signature on the assignment of wages petition. This man was married after the petition was prepared. This man was not asked previously to get his wife's signature on the check-off. This is necessary to comply with the state law. This is not grounds for a discharge. Nineteen union men are out of the plant and approximately 20 are still working. Of these, eight are union members that are now in bad standing due to O'Neal's coercion. Four are men placed on jobs there since the plant has been picketed. Sam Revis, President. Selling Campaign on Refrigerators

Whitten-York Stresses the Year-Round Refrigeration in Electrolux

"The rapid growth of interest in 'all-year-round household refrigeration' is indicated by the successful selling of gas and kerosene refrigerators by our sales employees in the nation-wide refrigerator selling campaign now under way," announced Mr. York of the Whitten-York Furniture Co., which is participating in the campaign locally.

"The success already met by members of our selling force shows that the time is long past when housewives are interested in buying a refrigerator only during the spring when the hot season is approaching, or in the summer when the heat has arrived.

"Once installed in the home, the Servel Electrolux refrigerator begins to furnish a service for preserving food and making frozen desserts that lasts throughout the entire year. No longer does the modern housewife want these advantages only because the weather is warm. No longer is the demand for ice cubes confined to the summer time. A beverage should be just as cool in the winter as in the summer.

"Famed for their permanent silence, Servel Electrolux refrigerators are now installed in well over a million city homes, apartments, and farm homes throughout the United States. Because its freezing system has no moving parts to wear, these refrigerators operate economically in all seasons of the year, thus assuring more years of dependable service and savings that pay for it."

One of these, Mr. Roosevelt said, was that Homer Cummings, former attorney general and adviser on judiciary appointments, "never had the slightest idea of giving consideration to the recommendations of the two Virginia senators because the governor of Virginia (James H. Price) had been promised the right of veto on nominations that they made."

Senator Glass, after reading the president's letter, said: "It's hardly worth discussing. There's nothing to it, but I may have something to say about it in the Senate later."

Byrd merely said: "He (the president) had had his say. 'We may have ours later.'"

The president's letter said that after investigation and consultation with the attorney general, it was decided that of the five or six men under consideration for the judgeship Roberts was best qualified for the post.

Christians' Scout Troop to Be No. 67

New Local Troop Will Begin Weekly Meetings Wednesday

The Boy Scout Troop which has been meeting at First Christian church for the past two months was registered Wednesday and given its number by headquarters of the Caddo Council at Texarkana.

The new troop, sponsored by First Christian church, is to be known hereafter as Troop 67. It will also be known as an "Anniversary Troop," having been officially registered on the 29th anniversary of the organization of the Boy Scouts of America, February 8th.

The official board of the Christian church in its monthly meeting last Monday night officially approved the troop's application for a charter and also approved the appointment of Joe R. Floyd as Chairman of the Troop Committee, and Fred Delzell and Thos. Kinser as members of the Troop Committee. Rev. V. A. Hammond is registered as Scoutmaster and has as his assistant D. Shannon, who has served a year as Assistant Scoutmaster in a Christian Church Scout Troop at San Antonio, Texas.

Twelve boys qualified as tenderfoot scouts before the application for registration was filed. The troop already has a waiting list, but will not recruit any more boys until a better organization is perfected within the troop. The following comprise the charter membership of the Troop: Robert M. Conway, David E. Dempsey, Jerome P. Duffie, Joseph P. Floyd, Thomas L. Frazier, Joseph F. Porter, William M. Ramsey, Jr., John P. Sanders, Boise Sterling, Raymond Taylor, Waymond Taylor, and Robert E. Ward. Troop 67 meets each Wednesday night at 7:15, and will participate with other troops of the city in the observance of Boy Scout Anniversary Day in the special meeting at the city hall Wednesday night. It will also participate with the other troops of the city in the special Boy Scout Anniversary Service at First Presbyterian church Sunday night, February 12.

have been a 35-cent article. Sales taxes, an innovation of the past few years, now means that buyers pay from 2 to 3 per cent of the cost of every article in taxes whose amount they can see on the sales check. That hits everybody.

The total of all these taxes, federal and local, is about 13 billions of dollars every year. That means, for 130,000,000 people, that the average tax bill per person is $100.

Everyone Pays Something Do the one-third of all American families and individuals who make only $780 a year or less pay $100 in taxes? Certainly not. In fact families earning less than $1200 a year often pay much less than that $100 average. The difference is made up by the few wealthier people who pay much more. But even so it is not true that the rich pay most of the taxes.

NEXT: Who pays the tax bill, and what is done with the money.

All other things having failed bank night is hereby recommended to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace for aid with the farm problem.

Collins Upheld as Unemployed Head

Social Security Board Honors Arkansas Legal Opinion

WASHINGTON, (P)—The Social Security Board Wednesday recognized Eli W. Collins, of Jonesboro, as Arkansas unemployment compensation director.

Recognition took the form of an acceptance of the Arkansas attorney general's ruling that Collins' appointment by the state was valid.

Reports from central Spain said General Mija, commander in the Madrid-Valencia zone, was determined on a fight to the finish and was convinced the government was in "splendid position" to continue the struggle despite the loss of Catalonia. Communist leaders, a factor in Negrin's organized support, indicated they were preparing to move to central Spain, following the government either to Valencia or Madrid.

Take Calotabs to Help Nature Throw off Colds

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fourth night if needed. How do Calotabs help Nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of any virus-laden mucus and toxins. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which may be needed in the treatment of colds. Calotabs are twice economical; only twenty-five cents for the family packet, ten cents for the trial package.—(adv.)

Improved Wingmen Seen by Thomsen

All End Candidates Are Engaged in Playing Basketball

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—When Coach Fred Thomsen sends his Arkansas Razorbacks out on the football field next fall, he should have a greatly improved set of ends. His first three ends of last fall and the two starting ends of the 1938 frosh team are all playing basketball.

In other words, the five leading candidates for end positions on next fall's football team are getting plenty of practice on the basketball floor. Howard Hickey, Maurice Britt, and John Freiberger, varsity wingmen and sophomores all, are regulars on Coach Glen Rose's varsity cage squad.

R. C. Pitts and O'Neal Adams, starting ends on last fall's freshman grid squad, are playing sensationally for Coach Gene Lambert's basketball team. In a game against Miami Junior College last Saturday Pitts scored 21 points and Adams 17.

Fort Worth fans will get an opportunity this week-end to see two Razorbacks who scored against T. C. U.'s great football team of last fall in the role of basketball players. John Freiberger, who scored a touchdown against Davy, O'Brien & Co. with a catch of a 40-yard pass, will be at center for Coach Rose's basketball team against T. C. U. Friday and Saturday nights. Maurice Britt, who also caught a touchdown pass against the T. C. U. champions, is first string reserve on the basketball team and will see action at Fort Worth if that other football wingman, Howard Hickey, should happen to fall out of the game or get injured.

Defies Conventions and Makes Better Pictures Cheaper—Garson Kanin Made Three Fine Films in His First Year in Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD—Those of you who are getting pretty tired of Talkietown's million-dollar glorifications of dime-novel stories can take some comfort from the advent of young Mr. Garson Kanin.

Kanin is a director and has bossed only three modest pictures. The first was "A Man to Remember," and it was better than 90 per cent of the top-budget films of 1938. The contrast is heightened when you consider that Kanin's feature was shot in four days under a 19-day schedule and for a total cost of $109,000—a sum which would just about pay the extras in a Fox or Metro super-cooper.

Mr. B. Won't Hurry Even for a Budget

Then came "Next Time I Marry," a bright little comedy but with a story to which no amount of direction or star casting could have given real distinction. Kanin's current effort is "The Great Man Votes," with John Barrymore and Virginia Weidler giving such performances as you haven't seen in a long time. Mostly on account of Barrymore, who can't be rushed, this one took 34 days to make and cost $240,000. This is still low-budget, but a truly fine picture.

Kanin is 26 years old and is popping with ideas and defiance of Hollywood's clichés and conventions. No upstart, in spite of his youth, he has a sound dramatic background. Successfully a vaudeville musician, burlesque comic and Broadway actor, he studied at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts and became a faculty member. Then he was an associate with George Abbott in the production of four hits—"Three Men on a Horse," "Brother Rat," "Room Service" and "Hitch Your Wagon"—none of which had a single star name. The latter show was directed by Kanin.

Producing Nothing But Silence
Samuel Goldwyn brought him to Hollywood late in 1937 with an idea of making him a producer. Kanin sat around for almost eight months, attending a production conference every day and often never opening his mouth. He eagerly talked with cutters and technicians on the lot, though, and read about 200 scripts. Finally, fidgeting for a chance to work, he persuaded Goldwyn to release him and turn over his contract to Pandro Berman at RKO. Berman decided to make him a director.

The picture business is full of rules which are mostly "don'ts." "Goldwyn once told me that you couldn't make a successful episodic story of a man's life," Kanin recalled. "When 'A Man to Remember' was mentioned, I thought of that rule and decided to try to disprove it."

"Every time Hollywood throws away its rule book it seems make an interesting and different kind of picture. But they'll experiment only on the cheap ones. I challenge you to name one expensive picture in the last ten years that hasn't been one before according to formula. I told Berman I'd like to go on experimenting with low-budget features, but I'm afraid he's got something bigger in mind for me."

It's No Sin to Make Money

Kanin doesn't sneer at the profit motive and the studios' refusal to gamble fortunes on unusual types of films. He'd like to make a lot of money, too. But he does believe that Hollywood is alienating a huge bloc of the public with star-studded trash of the dime-novel type. He believes the industry should make three distinct types of pictures: (A) big, glittering, mass-appeal movies; (B) pictures for limited audiences which would have substantial, significant stories, good acting with no attention to star names, and less pretentious sets; (C) films designed mostly for children. Probably, four-reelers. Non-fiction material would be shown with meticulous accuracy.

The director feels pretty strongly about some of the things that kids are seeing now. He said: "Nobody in this town hates censorship more than I do, but I think it's actually dangerous for youngsters to see the scrambled history that has been filmed lately, such as 'Marie Antoinette.' Norma Shearer didn't want to play an unsympathetic role, so they rewrote history for her. Youngsters will believe what they see on the screen, and when they find such great differences between movie stories and their textbooks, they'll begin to distrust the whole system of education."

Farmers who did not have their horses treated for bots at the clinic that has been conducted the past few weeks at various community centers may arrange clinic for Thursday or Friday of this week. Dr. H. D. Linker, veterinarian in charge, will treat horses in groups of fifteen or more at the clinic on these days at any community meeting arranged. A special clinic has been arranged at Dr. Linker's office at Hope for Saturday afternoon for all who desire to bring their horses.

Expert at McCaskill
Roy Sellers, marketing specialist with the extension service, will assist farmers of the McCaskill area in organizing to produce and market green wrap tomatoes at a meeting arranged by the McCaskill Community Farm Bureau on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at McCaskill. Problems of marketing and how handled by the South Arkansas Truck Growers will be discussed by Mr. Sellers. Bert Scott, president of the McCaskill group, will be in charge of the meeting.

Concrete Is Durable
Concrete, carefully and accurately made, will be the most durable part of a well-constructed farm building. It is made by mixing sand, gravel, water, and portland cement, and allowing it to "set." But only good materials should be used, and these in their proper proportions. The exact proportions will depend upon the purpose for which the concrete is to be used, according to Earl L. Arnold, extension agricultural engineer, University of Arkansas, College of Agriculture.

The sand and gravel must be clean. Mr. Arnold said. If "bank run" gravel is used, it should be screened to separate it into sand and gravel, otherwise it may be necessary to use more cement than would be necessary, thereby increasing the cost. The water used should be fit to drink. The portland cement should be fresh cement that has never become damp. Cement binds the clean sand and gravel together, making a strong, solid piece.

The curing or "setting" of concrete is very important. This setting takes place through chemical action, and not through drying, Mr. Arnold said. The chemical action goes on only in the presence of water. If concrete is to harden properly, it should be kept damp for at least 7 days after it is in position.

Bad Season Forces Sox Cut Salaries

Players to Share When Club Draws 500,000 at Home

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

No baseball owner likes to slash salaries, but the Chicago White Sox had to as the result of home attendance falling below 400,000 because of early season injuries and bad weather on what would have been big days.

Lou Comisky liked the way the Sox responded. "I took it off the top guys," he explained.

Gerald Walker signed during the minor league meeting in New Orleans. He came up to my room and I told him that he'd better expect a cut. He said he was willing. Then he took a look at the contract and cracked: "Lou, you must have used two razor blades on this." But he wrote his name, and before he left told me: "I'll get it back next year." I hope he does.

"Any time my club draws around 500,000 at home, I'll give the boys a slice of the profits."

That was the only trouble with Zeke Bonura when he had him. Bonura always suspected that I made $2,000,000 every season and wanted a hummy of it.

"I finally got sore and told Jimmy Dykes: 'Either you get rid of him or I will.'"

"It's the only time I ever told Dykes what to do in the five years he's been manager."

Pole Vaulters Differ Widely in Technique

Pole vaulting, one of the more difficult track and field events, is done in different ways.

Earle Meadows uses the short grip, but runs hard.

Dick Ganslen takes hold of the pole about 13½ feet from the bottom end. That gives the Columbia ace more room at the top of the swing when he is about to go over the bar.

Ganslen starts his swing as soon as the butt end of the pole goes firmly into the box and gives a kick to send him up.

Cornelius Waitemander, the National A. A. U. champion, vaults about the same way. Yale men run rather slow and take a shorter grip on the pole. Ganslen says they can do 13-6 that way, but that it's hard to get 14 and over in that manner.

Ganslen takes a close grip. That keeps the arms about the same length and he believes affords a better swing.

Meadows and some who use the Yale system place their hands six or seven inches apart, which appears pretty awkward to Ganslen.

WOMEN WANT BEAUTY!

BY LOUISE HOLMES
COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday, Dick had once dated her. Now she recalls the day, sorrowfully, wishes she might have been beautiful just for him.

CHAPTER IV

SUSIE went to bed, but not to sleep. Her thoughts still pursued the well-worn path of memory. She had bought an evening dress for Dick's party, bright blue, more taffeta on the outside, definitely saffron underneath. It was long and extremely backless and sported two red velvet poppies on the bosom. She bought high-heeled red sandals. Actually they made her feet appear pretty and small but they hurt terribly.

On the day of the party she had her hair done, marcelled into a frizz, the bangs swirling from left to right. The frizz made her hair shorter than ever, it left a straight fringe on her chubby neck. She had her nails manicured, very pink, very shiny. She bought bath powder and a brilliant shade of lipstick.

By Saturday night Susie was in a dither. It took her two hours to dress. She dropped everything, upset everything. The thin silk hose were a bit short when she carefully pulled them over her well-rounded knees. The tight, backless brassiere snapped off its one hook when she leaned over and she had to undress. The dress was more snug than she had thought it in the shop, but the long skirt was beautifully slenderizing.

Susie's mirror said unflattering things concerning bright blue with her sallow skin. She angrily denied the accusation and put on more rouge. Her mouth, cherry red to the far corners, was enormous.

This, too, she refused to admit. It was no night for faultfinding.

Over the festive gown she wore her spring coat, the swaggy style. Noticing its dimensions one of the waitresses had said, "Susie's coat must have been made by Omar the Tentmaker." Susie was sorry she had no evening wrap, but a budget could only be stretched so far.

NEVER would Susie forget the moment when Dick arrived. Nothing that happened afterward could quite blur the rapture of that moment. Waiting in the lower hall, tense with anticipation, she had opened the door for him. Had he looked horrified for a split second? Surely not. Smiling, he removed his hat. Oh, the cleanliness of him, the breathtaking smoothness of his hair, the splendor of his evening clothes, the whole perfection of him.

Susie always remembered what he said. "Lady, the carriage waits." She had giggled hysterically.

Tokio

Mr. and Mrs. Bye Stewart and son Jack visited Mr. and Mrs. Lester Webb in the Pump Springs community Sunday.

Mrs. Ed Nance is on the sick list at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. Quinton Sanford visited Mr. and Mrs. Rush Harris at Mineral Springs the last week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Hutson visited Mr. and Mrs. Pierce Hutson at Doyle Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Stewart and Mrs. Claude Stewart visited Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Smith at Doyle Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Gaston of Camden visited Mr. and Mrs. L. Wright Sunday.

The carriage was a roadster, long and low and swanky. Susie tripped on her long dress and literally fell into the seat. The top was down and the night air blew some of the frizz out of her hair, leaving dismally unmanageable strands. On the drive to the fraternity house she laughed too much, talked too much, was jumpy as a toy balloon. All at once Susie was stricken with fear. What went on at a fraternity dance? She hadn't an idea. Excitement dissolved and with it went confidence.

"I've never been to a nice party," she said to Dick. "Maybe I shouldn't have come."

"You'll get along all right," he assured her. "I'll see that you do."

He sounded a bit grim. He took her to the dressing room and, as she entered, the chatter ceased. Girls everywhere in slim gowns, soft chiffons, their heads coiled smoothly, their eyebrows daintily arched. Some of the girls turned their backs as Susie uncertainly took off the spring coat. She heard a suppressed snicker. Several of the more kindly inclined said, "Hello, Susie," and she stammered an answer. Then the girls left Susie alone, she heard the ripple of their laughter on the stairs.

Nervously powdering her nose she stopped, aghast at what she saw in the long mirror, squat bulk, overhanging eyebrows, the bulging fatness of her back. Frantically she fussed with her hair while panic seized her. She couldn't go down—she couldn't!

Then came Dick's voice from somewhere beyond the door. "Bout ready, Susie?"

AFTER that the party was a series of vague impressions: young men whom she had served with waffles being ostentatiously polite, girls who ignored her, dress too tight, shoes too tight, Dick all ways there. From 9:30 until one Susie danced with Dick, stumbling, losing the step, coming up with a jolt against his smoothly moving feet.

At twelve she had said, "Take me home, Dick."

He looked at his wrist watch. "Just a little longer, Susie." There was a white line of fatigue around Dick's young mouth. He smiled gallantly. At one time they were served with tiny sandwiches and huge black olives, sherbert and coffee. The girls were presented with favors, little silver compacts with the Delta Phi emblem embossed on one side. Susie was delighted with the trinket.

At two, descending the stairs, again enfolded in the spring coat, she saw one of the older boys talking to Dick in a low tone. Distinctly she heard the words, "Kiss her" and Dick's angry exclamation. Bewildered, she saw Dick tear the pledge pin from his vest. The older boy backed away, refusing the pin, laughing, saying, "Okay—you don't need to get sore." None of it made sense to Susie.

Sitting comfortably in the roadster beside a strangely preoccupied escort, Susie pondered over the incident in the hall. Obviously the upper classman had not wanted Dick to kiss her. Her blood pounded furiously at the thought. And Dick had been angry at the interference. Tremblingly, Susie waited.

At last she glanced at him from under her heavy brows. "Why didn't he want you to kiss me?" she asked, rather ingenuously for one unversed in subtleties.

Dick looked at her quickly, startled. He muttered, "Those guys had better mind their own business."

What Susie had answered still lay like a scorching coal in her heart after four years. She had said, "Well—if you want to—and if I don't care—." Un-kissed, hungry for love, flaming with it—

DICK stopped the car at Susie's shabby rooming house. "Look," he said, "I don't like fellows who kiss every girl they take out. I think it's common and not very complimentary to the girl."

"I've never been kissed," she said wistfully. It wasn't like Susie to be forward. Something outside herself, or perhaps within herself, wanted to be kissed. The still, crisp night, the star bitten sky, Dick's clean, honest mouth, the urge of youth—she leaned heavily against him.

Dick still hesitated. "Would it make you feel better tonight if I kissed you?" he asked. She gazed at him, not understanding. "If you knew I'd never take you out again would you want me to kiss you?"

Susie raised her lips and he kissed her. It was a quick, reluctant kiss, but in that instant, Susie's lonely, thwarted heart gave itself into Dick's keeping without thought of consequences, without question. Little wings of ecstasy beat in her heart, the cool night whispered, life had suddenly become mysterious and sweet. Love had come to stay with Susie.

"Thank you," she said softly. "Oh, please don't—"

Dick took her to the door.

He came in for a waffle the next day, but by that time Susie had learned the bitter truth. Her hurt was so deep and so wide that the heat of love might have been nipped had Dick been anyone except himself.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ready to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food is not digested. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sick and the world looks pink.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25 cents. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

100 YEARS OF BASEBALL

No. 3—Early Rules

The Knickerbockers attempted to standardize the rules and drew up the first written regulations. Among the more important rules was one ending the game when one side scored 21 runs, regardless of the number of innings played. However, it was stipulated that each team had to make the same number of putouts.

There were no called strikes, but a strikeout was called if the batter struck at and missed three pitches, and the ball was caught by the catcher on the last one—usually on first bounce. If the third strike was not caught the batter could try to make first base. Because of the many injuries incurred by this method the Knickerbockers insisted on banning soaking, still the practice in some games even though Abner Doubleday forbade it in his original rules.

History of the National Game

Told in Sketches by Art Krenz

It was decided that the pitcher must deliver the ball to the plate underhand and players were to bat in regular turn.
